

MISSION

The mission of the Wills Eye Hospital continuing medical education program is to enhance the knowledge and skills of physicians and health professional, as well as to promote optimal patient care. Wills Eye CME programs are offered throughout the year and focus on matters relevant to the clinical side of medicine and the ethical and policy issues faced by practicing ophthalmologists.

Founded on practice gaps and needs of our audience, educational activities deliver current, relevant, evidence-based and unbiased content. Various teaching and learning formats are used to achieve the highest level of learning retention and improvement of our audience. Tools used to assess changes in our learners' competence or performance and patient or public health outcomes include immediate post-activity evaluations, follow-up outcomes surveys, case-based assessments, and informal feedback. Wills Eye CME conducts an extensive review of its evaluation questions and process yearly in an effort to glean the most significant information needed to best assess our activities and overall program mission.
